PREFACE

This book is dedicated to all the Scouts of Occoneechee Council, past, present and future. It reflects either their history, that of their fathers, grandfathers and even great grandfathers, or that of their fellow Scouts. These emblems represent many stories which are our Occoneechee Council heritage today, and we challenge today's Scouts to discover them and share them with others. Doing this will reveal to them something of the partnership they share with the Scouts of yesterday and those who will follow them tomorrow.

Wayne Farrar joined the Scouting program in 1970 as an 8 year old Cub and has been a Scout and Scouter ever since. He became aware of the stories Scout patches had to tell when at age 13 he was inducted into the Order of the Arrow. He walked into Campbell Lodge at Old Camp Durant during Fall Fellowship in 1975, his first OA week-end, and stood watching the patch traders having fun reminiscing about the activities and various patches represented to them. Someone, observing his interest and the fact that as a new brother he had no patches to trade, gave him some patches to get him actively involved. He and his friends asked their scoutmaster how the patch traders got their first patches to get started. In an effort to help the boys use their new found interest to discover the extent of the great Movement to which they belonged, he challenged each of his Scouts to write other councils and collect as many council shoulder patches as they could. The fifty councils he wrote started him on a life long interest in the history and memorabilia of the Boy Scout Movement.

During his years as a Boy Scout, Wayne expanded his interests beyond collecting just Occoneechee Council and Order of the Arrow memorabilia to include all of Scouting: uniforms, flags, books, magazines, mugs, posters as well as patches from all periods. But he began to sense that striving to get "one of everything" seemed to have little point if his collections did not serve some greater purpose. The result was the beginning of the Hammerstone Historical Society which he started in 1985 with a group of other collectors intent on preserving for the future the Scouting memorabilia they had accumulated. In February 1986 they held a groundbreaking ceremony for the Hammerstone Scout Museum located in Harnett County on his family farm a few miles west of Lillington. Most of the emblems in this book are from the collections of the Hammerstone Scout Museum. Future plans for the Museum include doubling the current 2000 square foot display area it now has, adding a library facility and obtaining a mobile display unit which can bring exhibits of Scouting history and traditions to Scouts and Scouters attending various activities and to the general public.

At Occoneechee Lodge's 1983 Fall Fellowship, John Humber, an historian, Scoutmaster and Vigil member of Occoneechee Lodge, observed the excitement engendered in some young Arrowmen as they recognized among the patches being traded examples of emblems which they knew their fathers had at home. They saw designs which they probably had seen around the house for as long as they could remember, but to which they now attached a special significance for the first time beyond "Daddy's old patches". It is from this experience of watching these Scouts that he got the idea of having Occoneechee Council assemble a collection of its own insignia, making it available for all youth to enjoy who come to camp and helping them to realize something of the scope of the Movement to which they belong. Enlisting the help of anyone who was interested, a collection has been assembled of around 600 patches spanning the years from the 1930's to the present, all either issued by Occoneechee Council or used by a specific council activity, all freely contributed by many Scouts and Scouters alike, even from some former Occoneechee Scouts and Arrowmen living elsewhere. The ultimate goal of the Council Historical Committee is to have this collection framed and permanently mounted at Camp Durant for the benefit of all who come to live and learn in the Scouting tradition.

This present volume combines the Hammerstone Museum Collection, the Occoneechee Council Collection and certain other rare examples loaned by a number individual Scouters for the purpose of making this book more complete. The emblems included here span 69 years from 1926 through 1995. There are numerous examples of patches known to have existed, but not yet found. Doubtless there are many patches, the existence of which we are not yet aware. Any additional information or corrections pertaining to these patches are earnestly solicited by the Hammerstone Museum and the Council Historical Committee. They also seek for those collections donations of any patches they do not yet possess.

The publication of this book is underwritten by the Hammerstone Scout Museum and all profits from sales will go to the Museum for anticipated projects as well as the expansion of its collections and facilities. Its first project from profits realized will be the framing and mounting of the Occoneechee Council Patch Collection at Camp Durant. Future projects include the writing and publication of an Occoneechee Council history.

A number of people have been especially helpful in bringing this book to life. Although it is not possible to list everyone who has taken an interest in seeing it become a reality, dedicated Scouters like Van Davis, Frank Day, Jr., Renny Kremer, Carroll Sasser, and Norbert Stewart immediately come to mind. We also want to acknowledge the incomparable assistance of Johnny Pleasants, another long time Scouter, who provided the Hammerstone Museum and the Occoneechee Council Advancement Committee invaluable guidance and much appreciated assistance with printing costs without which this volume would not have been published.

The members of the Hammerstone Museum Board of Directors are: Wayne Farrar, Chairman, and Jeff Allen, Van Davis, Frank B. Day, Jr., Patrick Day, Bobby Dixon, Suzanne Dixon, Edward Farrar, Thomas Farrar, Robert Gray, Joy Harrington, Rick Horne, Renny Kremer, Terry Limbo, Chris McNeill, DVM, Randall McNeill, Carla Pace, Johnny Pleasants, Reggie Rosser, Andrew Stevens, Norbert Stewart, C.P. Stewart, Jean Somers, Dan Wilkinson, and Jerry Withers.

Although many people have contributed to the Occoneechee Council Collection and have been interested in the work of the Council Historical Committee over a number of years, the following persons have served actively as members of the committee: John L. Humber, Chairman, Sid A. Baynes, Van Davis, Frank Day, Jr., Wayne Farrar, Jim Gray, Renny Kremer, Carroll Sasser, Norbert Stewart and Dan Wilkinson.

INTRODUCTION

This book contains a full size illustration, unless otherwise noted, of every insignia known to exist that was issued by Occoneechee Council or historically known to have been used by the Council for some specific activity since its organization in 1930. It also includes some patches issued by the Council's predecessors known as the Durham and the Raleigh councils. Some spaces in the listing have been reserved for patches known to exist, but not yet found or obtainable. On occasion a drawing or a reconstruction of a patch is used because, although no examples have been found, there are existing photographs of people wearing them on their uniforms or designs found in brochures for specific events.

The information provided in this volume reflects the best knowledge currently available about each of the patches, but is by no means complete. A question mark (?) by a date simply means that it reflects a "best guess" when no verification has been obtained. Sometimes a range of possible dates is given (EXP19). And, of course, a range of dates is given when a patch was used for more than one year, such as some summer camp patches (SC37). Anyone having new or clarifying information is encouraged to write the Hammerstone Scout Museum at Rt.#3, Box 231, Lillington, NC 27546, or telephone at (910)814-2955. No project such as this can ever be considered complete, and any additional information is actively solicited.

A numbering system has been devised, keeping in mind the standard patch designations that are already in general use among patch collectors and their publications, adding new ones where none existed. The new patch codes were designed to help reflect the category of activity involved, such as CON for Cub Overnights or RUP for Roundups. A list of all patch codes used is provided for reference.

The Table of Contents provides a general overview of the categories into which the patches have been organized. The main Insignia List provides a master list by category of all patches included in the book with page numbers. Page numbers have been provided only for the first patch on a given page in order to avoid clutter. If a particular item has no page number given beside it, simply turn to the nearest page number cited just above it in the list. In some cases a patch will appear in more than one category, such as SC25 which is used with summer camp rockers (SC26 & SC27) as well as with some High Adventure patches (HA6 and HA7). However, such patches are identified by the same number in all cases.

Appendix A provides a chronological index of all emblems included in the book so that individuals can easily identify those items bracketing the years in which they were involved as Scouts or Scouters. Specific illustrations can be found by either locating the design by category in the Insignia List or by finding it in the chronological index.

OCCONEECHEE COUNCIL

A Short History

When the Boy Scouts of America was formally organized in 1911 under a National Council, two types of local councils were formed, usually in a city or a compact geographic area. A First Class Council was one which employed a Commissioner or Executive to direct the work of Scouting in that prescribed area. A Second Class Council encompassed the same type of geographic area, but usually one without sufficient or organized resources to hire a full time executive. In such cases the council was directed by a volunteer commissioner. As Scouting grew in these second class councils it became increasingly clear that only full time executives would have the necessary time required to devote to the work. These councils slowly ceased to exist by absorption in larger reorganized first class councils, and such distinctions between councils also ceased to exist.

This is what happened in what is today Occoneechee Council. Prior to the organization of this council, a Durham Council had been formed as a second class council by 1919, and a Raleigh Council, which included all of Wake County, also existed as a second class council by the same date. By 1923 the Raleigh Council became a first class council with William T. Dart and Gorrell Schoemaker serving a successive council executives. By 1925 the Durham Council also became a first class council with Claude Humphries as its council executive. There also existed a Walter Hines Page Council in the Sanford area.

In 1929 the Raleigh Council took the lead in organizing a new larger council and on January 13, 1930, the old Durham and Raleigh councils were joined by Granville, Vance and Franklin counties to charter the original Occoneechee Council. Its headquarters was established in Raleigh where it has remained except for a brief period between 1933 and 1937 when it was removed to Durham. Claude Humphries became the first Occoneechee Council Executive and served seventeen years until 1947. The Rev. J.W. Smith was elected as the council's first president.

Lee County was added in 1933 as an organized district and Harnett in 1934. Orange was transferred into Occoneechee from the Reidsville Council in 1936. Warren and Chatham counties were added in 1937, and Moore County was transferred from the Charlotte Council in 1940. The transfer of Cumberland County from the Cape Fear Council in 1950 completed the twelve county area encompassed by Occoneechee Council today.

In 1930 Occoneechee Council closed its first year with a total membership 453 Scouts over the then five county area. In 1940, with an 11 county area, membership had grown to 1750 youth and, after World War II, the Council closed 1946 with 4564 youth members in all programs. Scouting has grown greatly in Occoneechee Council since that time, keeping up with the population expansion of the area. The Council closed 1996 with 17,200 youth registered in the Cub, Explorer and Boy Scout programs.

COUNCIL IDENTIFICATION

Council identification on Scout uniforms did not begin until late in the Scouting movement. Community strips, beginning in the 1930s, were the first form of local identification worn on the left shoulder of uniforms with the state abbreviation just beneath. During the early late 1940s a council strip was issued, but these were mostly worn by council professionals and volunteer leaders. The CP1 through CP3 patches were used primarily by adult professional Scouters for council identification. By the 1970s Council shoulder patches became more prevalent and gained popularity among the patch collectors. In more recent years special shoulder patches have been issued for use by various high adventure council contingents such as to the National Jamboree or to Philmont.

CUB SCOUT PROGRAM

The Cub Scout Program, organized in 1930, was designed, not as an outdoor program, but as a family oriented program. During the 1970s the issuance of patches to boys for participation in an activity became quite popular and the Council has for many years issued patches for Cub Day Camp, also known as Camp Akela, the major summer Cub program. This is a week long day camp providing various sorts of crafts, games and sports designed for cub age groups. Although they are run on a district level a council patch is usually provided for use by all the districts.

Cub day events have normally been day long activities in which the Cubs participated in demonstrations or competitions. In the 1960s and 1970s they were often called Cub Scout Circuses wherein skits and other participatory events were planned. Later the shift was to a Cub Field Day. These events have usually been held on Saturday in conjunction with a district or council camporee with an invitation for the Cubs to stay for the evening campfire program. Field days consist mostly of action events such as games, sports and tests of youthful skills.

Then, in the 1970s as families were prone to do more and more camping on their own, the need for a camping program for Cub Scout aged boys became evident. A program was needed which challenged them, not only with pastimes which they enjoyed, but also with new activities with which they were not already familiar. Hence in 1980 the Council launched its very popular weekend camp program for Cubs, known by various names such as the Lad 'N Dad Weekend, Cub Overnighter and Cub Outing.

THE EXPLORER PROGRAM

Very few Explorer patches have been issued for participation in camping or physical activities. Mostly they have been issued for the annual Explorer conferences or conventions held for the leadership of the various posts. Some one day activity patches have been issued however. The first known patch for the explorer program in Occoneechee Council seems to have been the rocker "EA" (EXP1) associated with the 1949-1950 summer camp patch (SC20), although it is not known what had to be accomplished to earn it. Others are the Hanging Rock Explorer Expedition in 1962, the Special Forces Survival Training event in 1973, and the Operation Fitness and Road Rally events of the mid and late 1970s. The "1st Activity" (EXP17) patch was awarded for 1966 service project undertaken by a small group of Explorers led by Tom Taylor who ran and marked the boundary of the new Occoneechee Scout Reservation in Moore County.

In 1958 a special football ushering public service program was inaugurated by the Explorers of Occoneechee Council involving both Explorers and Scouts in cooperation with the sports programs of each of the three area universities in Raleigh, Durham and Chapel Hill. The youth would simply help people locate their seats in the crowded stadiums and receive a patch, such as FBU1, from either Duke University, the University of North Carolina or North Carolina State University for their participation. This program also provided a certain visibility for Scouting to the general public. By 1973 the program was taken over mainly by Boy Scout troops.

One additional Explorer activity appears as a Council High Adventure trip, the 1954 Explorer Cruise (HA10). Led by Andy Jackson, Scoutmaster of T-61 in Lillington, Scouts sailed from Norfolk to England and back on a U.S. Navy ship.

THE BOY SCOUT PROGRAM

OCCONEECHEE COUNCIL CAMPS

Camping has been an integral part of Scouting since its inception, and no less so in Occoneechee Council. Even before Occoneechee was organized in 1930, the old Durham and Raleigh councils operated camping programs.

SUMMER CAMPS

The Durham Council operated Camp Oklawaha on New Hope Creek in the Duke Forest. It was built for the council by the Durham Lions Club and was used for summer camp between 1927 and 1929.

The Raleigh Council, however, owned some land in what is now Umstead State Park by a small pond. It was called Camp Craggy because it was situated near an unusual rock formation along Crabtree creek. It is known to have been in operation by 1927. Ownership of the land was transferred to Occoneechee Council in 1930 and it operated summer camp there from 1930 through 1934. The camp was abandoned at that time due to bad water. Today the rock fire ring and the rock steps leading up to it are all that remain of the camp facilities that had consisted of a dining hall and at least six cabins. The steps and fire ring were built by the local chapter of the Kunitz, a forerunner of the Order of the Arrow, as part of one of their induction service projects.

For summer camp in 1935, while Occoneechee Council was looking for another site, it leased Camp Tippecanoe, believed to have been the YMCA camp north of Durham. Meanwhile a new camp was being built on Sycamore Creek, again in what is now Umstead State Park, by the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) with some involvement by the Re-settlement Administration and the National Park Service which owned that property. The council rented the camp from the National Park Service for summer camp from 1936 through 1939, calling it Camp Woodcraft during the first two years and Camp Sycamore the last two. Then in the early 1940s the Council decided to develop its own camp elsewhere and began a search for a permanent camp site.

During the 1930s a session of summer camp consisted of a 4 day segment, but it was operated more like a provisional camp. It was attended by individuals who registered, rather than entire troops as is customary today. Scouts in those days had to attend at least two sessions to qualify for receiving one of the summer camp patches. Most summer camp sessions were directed by the council executive.

During the 1940s the Council tried various other locations. It held a camp on Little River near Durham and another on Deep River near Sanford in 1940, probably referring to them simply as Occoneechee Council Camps (SC10). In 1941 it held "Camp Croatan" somewhere in either the Croatan National Forest or in the Hoffman National Forest (SC11). In 1942 the Council went back to Camp Sycamore for another year, but after that the camp was used as some sort of military training facility. It is not known where summer camp was actually held from 1943 through 1945.

In 1945 the Raleigh Boy Scout Foundation, which had been formed by a group of Raleigh businessmen and Scouters who wanted to acquire a permanent camp property, purchased Camp Edgerton at Neuse, NC, just north of Raleigh. It is possible that some sort of summer camp event was held there that year. However, in 1946 and 1947 summer camp was held at the "camp property at Neuse" and continued the use of the "Sunrise Tipi" patch design formerly used in the 1930s by Camp Woodcraft and Camp Sycamore.

In 1948 the Raleigh Boy Scout Foundation gave the "camp property at Neuse" to Occoneechee Council and retired businessman William Durant Campbell, a Scouter of national stature living in Pinehurst, gave a large sum of money to develop the facility. The camp was renamed Camp Durant in memory of W.D. Campbell's family and it began operating as Camp Durant in the summer of 1948, issuing its own camp patch (SC19) with rockers for the years attended. Summer camp was held at Camp Durant continuously from 1948 until 1977 at which time it was sold.

Scouting began among the African American population in the 1930s at Camp Moore, near Pinehurst. However, no insignia are known to exist from this camp. In the 1940s Camp Moore was sold and summer camp was held until the 1960s at the Reedy Creek section of what is now Umstead State Park. The Sunrise Tipi patch (SC18) with the 1948 and 1949 rockers were used exclusively by the camp program at Reedy Creek during those years. No examples of these rockers have been found either, but there exist photographs of Scouts wearing them.

During the early 1960s, the council began to realize that Camp Durant was becoming inadequate to handle the needs of a growing council. A new Scout reservation of about 2500 acres was purchased in 1964 by the Council with special gifts made available for that purpose. It is located in Moore County about eight miles west of Carthage and a summer camp program was begun there in 1966 on a section developed as Camp Reeves. Without a dining hall, Reeves operated a troop campsite cooking program as an alternative to the dining hall food service offered by Camp Durant north of Raleigh. Both Reeves and Durant ran simultaneous summer programs from 1966 through 1977, when Camp Durant was sold.

In 1978, the first year after Camp Durant was closed, there was large increase in the use of the Camp Reeves property. The US Army from Fort Bragg furnished the camp a field kitchen for providing a general food service, and in 1979 the food service for campers was catered. During 1978 and 1979 the summer camp program was held only at Camp Reeves while a new camp was being built to replace Camp Durant on an adjacent tract of land in the Occoneechee Scout Reservation.

This new camp, also called Camp Durant to help perpetuate the older traditions, opened in 1980 with a dining hall facility. Both camps ran simultaneously that year, the only year this was done, with Durant operating a dining hall food service and Reeves continuing its patrol cooking program. From that time on all summer camp events have been held at the new Camp Durant on the Occoneechee Scout Reservation. Once again in 1986 a joint program was attempted at both Reeves and Durant, but, although patches for both camps were issued (SC62 and SC68), the Reeves program did not materialize.

On a point off Kerr Lake north of Henderson is a property known as Camp W.D. Campbell. It is a facility owned by the US Corps of Engineers and leased to Occoneechee Council for use as a Scout camp. Some improvements were made on the property and some long term summer camp events were held there between 1964 and 1971, but its distance from and accessibility to the rest of the council precluded its continued use as a summer camp site. However, it has been continually used over the years by troops, districts and the Council for various short term events.

The Early Bird patches were designed to offer an extra incentive for youth to register early for summer camp. This not only helped them think about summer camp and needed preparations long before time to depart, but it also provided the camp staff advance information with which to plan the program and logistics for a season of long term camping.

CAMPOREES

Camping out for a weekend has always been one of the great backbones of the Boy Scout program. And taking home a souvenir from such a campout represents for the Scout something special he has accomplished. In the 1930s and early 1940s Occoneechee Council held some council-wide camporees, although no insignias seem to have survived from any of those early activities except for the 1940 neckerchief slide (CPR1).

However, beginning around 1944 the Council held annual Camporees at various locations, usually awarding a patch or neckerchief slide to the participants. Rockers were introduced as a money saving device, but they also made continuity in the program more evident (CPR9 and CPR10). Sometimes rockers were used as extra awards earned for participating in special camporee activities. Also national stock patch designs were often used with Occoneechee Council lettering embroidered on them. Some patches were lovely multi-colored designs such as the "Keep America Beautiful" Camporee in 1968 (CPR28) and others were plain unembellished national stock designs such as the 1954 "Conservation Camporee" (CPR12). Camporee staffs were sometimes recognized with a "Staff" rocker. Later a completely separate patch with the same design as for the participants was sometimes issued with a different color border for staff, or perhaps with all the activity rockers issued as a part of the patch itself.

By 1972 the Council decided to only hold camporees every other year which was thought to make such a large gathering more meaningful to the boys. And, by and large, this plan has persisted to the present.

HIGH ADVENTURE

The special challenge of high adventure is an opportunity that motivates Scouts to work hard and preparation for such special events. In Occoneechee Council this kind of adventure has taken many forms.

NATIONAL JAMBOREE CONTINGENTS

Although the 1935 National Jamboree was canceled, a contingent had been formed and was ready to go. The first actual contingent from Occoneechee Council, was to the 1937 Jamboree in Washington, DC. No contingent patches were issued, but National did provide shoulder patches that identified the region, section and troop for each Scout to wear. None of these have been located as yet for this Council's contingent, but the 1937 Jamboree contingent flag is framed and mounted in the Occoneechee Council Service Center board room in Raleigh. Most of the other National Jamboree troop flags since then have been located, cleaned, framed and mounted on the ceiling of the Camp Durant Dining Hall through a special project designed and executed by Norbert Stewart.

The Boy Scouts of America organized a series of regional Jubilees and a "Carolina Jubilee" was held in 1938 at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill (SC7). Essentially this served as another option for summer camp in those early days, but it was organized as a regional activity. When time for another National Jamboree arrived in 1941, it was decided to call it off due to the war effort and no further National Jamborees were held until 1950. However, in 1941, the National Office once again organized a series of regional Jubilees in lieu of a National Jamboree. And, once again, a "Carolina Jubilee" was held at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill (SC11) for that purpose.

The first National Jamboree contingent patch issued was in 1969 (NJ1) using the old Occoneechee patch design of the state of North Carolina extending through a circle. It is the same design that first appeared in 1960 as SC32 and SC33, and used for several years thereafter for summer camp. No further council contingent patches seem to have been issued for Jamborees until 1985, and one has been issued for each Jamboree since.

HIGH ADVENTURE TRIPS

High Adventure Expeditions have been a long standing tradition in Occoneechee Council. Boys always like to do something away from home that they cannot do there. And in North Carolina the mountains have always beckoned. As early as 1943 a felt patch was issued for a hike up Mt. Mitchell, the highest elevation east of the Mississippi River. These mountain expeditions have been held over the years at many different locations such as the Peaks of Otter in Virginia, the Pinnacles in West Virginia as well as various segments of the Appalachian Trail. In 1950 a Winter Camp was also held as a high adventure activity.

About 1960 a new series of high adventure events were instituted that have become a long standing tradition in Occoneechee Council, continued down to the present day. That is the Annual 50 Miller Hike performed during the week between Christmas and New Year's Day. An activity patch is believed to have been issued since the very beginning, although several have not been located. These events have usually been planned and led by a volunteer Scouter and his staff. The hike was usually named after him as can be readily seen from the hike names appearing on the patches. In 1979 rockers were introduced, primarily to differentiate between participants and those who simply obtained a patch from some other source. Later rockers were used to differentiate between Hikers, Staff and members of the Support team. In 1988 a backpatch as well as a pocket activity patch was issued (CH29 and CH29.1), as was done again in 1994 (CH34 and CH34.1). Additionally, in 1992 the same patch was issued twice with different color borders to differentiate between participants and staff (CH33 and CH33.1).

Another form of high adventure hiking that was offered for several years was the One Day Fifty Miler Hike. In this event hikers began at a specific place and hiked a planned route usually consisting of back roads or trails accessible by vehicles with only a small day pack for such things as dry clothes, lineament, water and trail food. A mobile staff with EMT personnel patrolled the route and check stations were set up every 5 miles. The hike started late in the afternoon on a Friday and terminated at the same time the next day, or when the last person on the trail came in. Meals were provided along the way with a hot breakfast in the morning. Rockers were earned on some of these hikes reflecting the miles completed (CHD1 - CHD3).

Trips to visit or ride Navy ships and even actual long term cruises on board a ship were truly high adventure. In 1954, led by Andy Jackson, Scoutmaster of Troop 61 in Lillington, a group of Explorers rode a Navy ship from Norfolk, VA, all the way to England and back (HA10). In 1978, led by John Humber, Scoutmaster of Troop 820 in Chapel Hill, some 120 Occoneechee Scouts and Scouters participated in a dependent's day cruise on board the Navy carrier, USS Eisenhower, CV 69, (HA37).

Yet another type of activity which was begun early in the Council's history was canoeing down a major river, camping along the way. In 1944 (HA2) and 1945 (HA3), two such activities seem to have occurred on the Neuse River. As canoes became more readily available, however, individual troops planned their own canoe trips on the Cape Fear and other major rivers. Council organized trips, therefore, do not seem to have been continued, although council owned canoes were made available to troops for such expeditions and council sponsored canoe training was routinely provided for youth and adults.

Beginning in 1959 (HA11) there were organized a series of Canadian Goodwill Tours. These seem to have continued every year or two until 1972 as planned Council travel events. Another tour was the Freedom Tour of 1976 (HA36) which was organized as a bicentennial event to visit Washington and Philadelphia.

For many years, it is not known how many, Occoneechee Council has been sending a provisional contingent to Philmont Scout Ranch to hike the trails and climb the Tooth of Time. In 1992 a contingent emblem in the form of a council shoulder patch with a ledger strip along the bottom has been issued to those who have participated in the expeditions (CSP16 - CSP 20).

EXHIBITIONS

SCOUT-O-RAMA

Scout exhibitions have been traditionally organized over the years since the Movement began to do two things: to give Scouts an opportunity to demonstrate the skills they have learned as Scouts and to provide public exposure for the Scouting Program. Such day events have taken various forms. One of the early ones was a Scout Circus (SOR1) where skits and various types of demonstrations were presented. Other terms used were Scout Exposition (SOR4) and Scout Showman (SOR6). The name Scout-O-Rama seems to have first occurred in the early 1960s (SOR8) and used consistently, or its abbreviation "S-O-R", until 1984 when the activity was suspended due to waning interest by council units. It was reinstated in the early 1990s and then discontinued once again. This activity was also used as a fundraising opportunity by the Council and by the units. Tickets were sold to friends and neighbors for them to come and see what Scouting was all about and to watch their friends in action.

Another type of demonstration event was the "Showando" which has been a regular part of the annual council program off and on over the years. As in Scout-O-Ramas demonstrations of scout skills were presented with an opportunity given participants to try their skill at the activity. However, it seems that no specific participant patches were ever issued, with the exception of using two national stock patches in 1982 (SOR29 and SOR30).

ROUNDUPS

Roundups were special programs used for recruiting new boys into the Scouting Program since at least 1950 (RUP-1). Often demonstration programs at schools in the fall provided potential new scouts with an idea of what being a Cub Scout or Boy Scout was all about. Patches or neckerchief slides were usually one means of recognizing the work done by participating youth. Sometimes stock patches were used and re-embroidered (RUP3) and other times special designs were used (RUP5). At times special sponsors were enlisted to underwrite a fall roundup to make it more attractive to boys, such as the "Coaches Roundup" in 1975 (RUP6). Sometimes a commercial company was sought to underwrite the cost of the program and its logo was placed on the patches (RUP8 and RUP9). Beginning in the late 1970s special slogans were devised to attract attention such as "Scouting Try Outs" (RUP10), where a special camping trip was planned to include non-Scouts and give them a taste of what they would be doing as Scouts, or "Scouting Fever" in 1979 (RUP11) and "Proud Partners" (RUP12) in 1980. After that, although roundups continued, the issue of special patches seems to have been discontinued.

FOOTBALL USHERING

Although this type of public exposure event for Scouting began in 1958 as an Explorer service project, by 1973 it had become primarily a Boy Scout troop project. The boys would simply help people locate their seats in the crowded stadiums and receive a patch, such as FBU2, from either Duke University, the University of North Carolina or North Carolina State University for their participation. Later the program was expanded to include the selling of drinks, candy and peanuts during the game for which the troops retained a certain portion of the profits for their use. This transformed the program into a fund raising opportunity for units with the cooperation of the sports programs of the three major area universities. This program was discontinued in 1978, the last such event being held at the University of North Carolina. Peanut selling, however, has continued since, but strictly as a fundraising opportunity for local units.

TRAINING

Training Scouts as Junior Leaders and adults as Scout leaders has been a major part of the Scouting Program since its inception. Few patches have been issued by Occoneechee Council for participants in such programs over the years. Those that are known have been principally for participants in Commissioner training, Cub Pow Wows, Junior Leader Training, Merit Badge training, Webelos Leader Training and Woodbadge.

Commissioner training has been carried on in Occoneechee since the early days with national training programs, and recognition was granted primarily by the official collar devices and uniform shoulder patches. In the late 1960s and early 1970s the commissioner service hit a slump and was not very active in the districts. Formal commissioner training in Occoneechee Council began again in recent years with the first Commissioner College held in 1977 at St. Luke's Church in Sanford with George Heib appointed as Council Commissioner. A training program was announced and a system of patches was designed to recognize those commissioners who attained various levels or "degrees" of experience and training (TRC1). Special recognition was awarded to faculty members by a faculty patch and later on to recognize their length of service as trainers. Commissioner "College" has been held annually since and, although the original patch system has been redesigned, the original concept has been retained.

The Cub Pow Wow is really an intensive one day training program for youth and adults who work with young cub age boys. It is designed for all the various Cub leader positions and includes hands on training in the various parts of the Cub program such as in crafts, games, skits as well as the more mundane but important pack administration. It involves Cub adult leaders as well as youth from Scout troops who serve as Den Chiefs to meet part of their Scout leadership requirements.

The Junior Leader Training program has long been a major source of training for the youth leaders of Boy Scout troops. National patch designs were normally used by this Council to recognize such training achieved with council identification embroidered on them. In 1995 an unusually fine special design (TRJ6) was prepared for the participants in this annual training event.

Merit Badge Day was a program held during the late 1980s and early 1990s at Carolina Power and Light's Shearon Harris Nuclear Power Plant Visitor Center, organized by Martha Glass, an Assistant Council Commissioner and long time Scouter. Various booths were set up by knowledgeable persons who offered a program designed to help boys earn at least a part of a selected number of merit badges, much like the Merit Badge Midway at a National Jamboree.

Webelos Leader Training is just one of the adult leadership training programs offered by the Council utilizing national training programs and syllabi. Other training programs are offered for Cub Leaders and Scoutmasters, for instance, but in Occoneechee Council only the Webelos leader training program has so far provided this kind of recognition for Cub leader training.

Woodbadge is a nationally designed adult training program wherein adult leaders live in organized patrols like Scouts in a troop for a certain number of days, carrying out the routine requirements of tent camping such as cooking their own meals during the course. Meanwhile they are also in training for leadership skills which will be demanded of them in their chosen Scouting jobs. Woodbadge courses, sponsored by the Region, are held periodically among the various councils and two such courses involving Occoneechee Council have issued a shoulder patch to identify their participants. Several Woodbadge Reunions were held in 1979 and the early 1980s where souvenir patches were issued to those attending. Green Bar Bill was a guest at the 1980 reunion and spoke to those present.

FUNDRAISING ACTIVITIES

With the discontinuation of the Scout-O-Rama in the mid 1980s a new method of fund raising was needed by the council. Scout-O-Rama ticket sales had provided the Council as well as units with income, but interest in this annual event waned by the mid 1980s and as a result this avenue of fundraising ceased. A plastic garbage bag sales program was tried for a couple of years, but it failed to capture the interest of the boys.

Then in 1986 Trailsend Popcorn sales was adopted by the Council and it has proved extremely popular both among the Scouts as well as their communities. It has been an annual program in the late fall and early winter since 1986 and special patches have been provided annually for those boys who participate as salesmen for their units. This extremely successful program has helped to outfit many packs and troops.

OCCONEECHEE LODGE 104 ORDER OF THE ARROW

LODGE INSIGNIA

Although the Order of the Arrow was founded in 1915 by E. Urner Goodman and Carroll A. Edson, it was not until 1934 that the Boy Scouts of America recognized the Order as a national program and chartered the National Grand Lodge to operate the Order for it as a kind of adjunct program. The Order of the Arrow was not actually adopted until 1948 as an official part of the Boy Scout program.

KUNIEH

During these early years other groups had been organized in various parts of the country along similar lines as the Order of the Arrow. One of these was the Ku-ni-eh, established by the Cincinnati Council. It was also based upon Indian traditions stressing service, loyalty, cheerfulness, self control and outdoor skills in the development of young men. The Kunieh had a local chapter in the Raleigh area by 1926 and perhaps as late 1937. Among other things, it built the stone fire ring and steps at old Camp Craggy. Like the other organizations of its kind, it simply faded away as the Boy Scouts of America began the process of absorbing the Order of the Arrow into its own program.

LODGE ROUNDS

Occoneechee Lodge was organized in 1937 after Council Executive Claude Humphries returned from the 1937 National Jamboree. He served as Staff Adviser and Dr. Lenthal Wyman became the first Lodge Adviser. Both men served in these positions through the first years of the Lodge, Humphries until 1946 and Wyman until 1950. It was not until the late 1940s that the first Lodge emblems were issued. These are known as the Lodge Rounds and were worn as identification patches by Arrowmen until 1957 when the first Lodge pocket flap was issued. The original four rounds (R1 - R4) were worn as temporary activity patches on the uniform pocket or on a jacket, and in 1952 the first Thunderbird Round was issued when the thunderbird was adopted as Occoneechee Lodge's official totem. This series of rounds (R5 - R7.1, R10 and R11) were larger and mostly used on neckerchiefs or jackets, especially after 1957 when the first pocket flap was issued. The Dance Team rounds (R8 - R9) were insignia awarded to qualifying members of the Lodge Dance Team. And, on the 50th Anniversary of the Lodge in 1987 a special round was issued (R13) to commemorate that event.

LODGE FLAPS

Lodge flaps became the standard means of identification for Order of the Arrow lodges in 1954 and were designed to be worn on the uniform's right shirt pocket flap, hence called lodge flaps. These insignia have passed through various designs, color combinations and shapes, but have always retained some sort of image of the thunderbird as the focal point of the design. The first flap (S1) was more shaped like a shield. This then changed to the standard shape of the uniform pocket flap with the second issue (S2). Only one flap was worn by all Occoneechee Arrowmen from 1957 to 1971 when a separate flap was introduced for Ordeal, Brotherhood and Vigil members. This division in flap design has been retained since then. Before 1978 the thunderbird's tail was designed as elongated feathers, but with S7 this "tail" was changed to the Scout emblem of the fleur-de-lis. This was done because of a national requirement that the Scout emblem appear on all official Scout recognition items. One reissue of the Ordeal flap in 1981 (S7) was made unusually short by mistake and was dubbed the "micro" flap. It is also noted that the 1978 - 1985 run of the three flaps was somewhat shorter than those before or since and can easily be identified when compared. Also some varieties exist with the fleur-de-lis being woven off center.

In 1982 (W1) and 1983 (W2 and W3) special commemorative lodge flaps were issued to celebrate the 45th anniversary of Occoneechee Lodge. Others commemorative anniversary flaps have followed such as for the Lodge's 50th Anniversary and the Order of the Arrow's 75th Anniversary.

Special flaps were issued for National Order of the Arrow Conference contingents beginning in 1988, and a special shield shaped lodge flap was issued for Occoneechee Arrowmen who served in 1993 as the last host lodge of the Old North State Conclave. Two versions were issued, the first with 6 red triangles which was in error, and the second with 14 red triangles to represent each lodge in the old Section Seven.

In 1995 two series of three flaps were issued, a re-embroidered standard set as it was in S8 through S10, and a second set as a limited edition souvenir set featuring the old Thunderbird tail feather, except this time it had triple tail feathers. In order to conform with national requirements, a fleur-de-lis was embroidered in relief under the left wing of the Thunderbird, but in the same color and type thread as the background of the flap so that it is not easily discernible.

JACKET PATCHES

The Lodge has issued five different jacket patches since 1982, beginning with the Chenille Thunderbird (C1). Each was like the old Thunderbird Rounds (R5 series) except for the two Dance Team special issues (C2 and J3). The 1991 (C2) issue was an extremely limited chenille issue presented only to the active dance team members of that year who met certain requirements. The 1991 (J3) issue was issued to succeeding year dance team members who met the prescribed requirements.

NECKERCHIEF PATCHES

These Thunderbird patches were issued either already sewn on official Lodge neckerchiefs (P1 and P2) or designed to be sewn on a neckerchief (P3 and P4). The section Elangomat patches (SE1 and SE2) were issued for Elangomat training achieved at a section conclave. The Elangomat concept was originated by Bill Hartman and John Forrest, both Occoneechee Arrowmen, to provide trained official lodge guides to Ordeal candidates during their initiation weekend.

CONCLAVES HOSTED BY OCCONEECHEE LODGE

Every year the Order of the Arrow Section sponsors a gathering of the lodges at a conclave, each hosted by the section lodges on a rotating schedule. The section to which Occoneechee Lodge has belonged over the years has usually consisted of only North Carolina lodges, but has been periodically re-designated. The original section to which Occoneechee Lodge belonged was designated 6A, for which our lodge hosted four conclaves (CLV1 - CLV4). Then the section was re-designated as 3A and only one conclave was hosted by the Lodge in 1974 (CLV5 and CLV6). The 1982 Conclave (CLV7) was the first held for Section SE7 and the 1993 Conclave (CLV8 and CLV9) was the last for that Section known as the Old North State Conclave. Occoneechee Lodge hosted both of these. Effective in 1993 the section was re-designated as S7 because the old Southeast Region was incorporated into a new expanded Southern Region. For the first time Virginia lodges were included with North Carolina lodges in the same conclave. The 1993 host lodge patch was issued to Occoneechee Lodge members as an activity patch for that event.

OA COOK CREW

From its inception in the 1950s until the early 1990's the OA Cook Crew was a unique institution composed of Occoneechee Arrowmen who cooked the meals for every Lodge function for over forty years. First led by Charley Sullivan these patches are among the most honored in the lodge for the traditions that they represent. Only members of that special group were issued these patches.

SERVICE AWARDS

Over the years patches have been designed and awarded to Arrowmen for service rendered according to a set of requirements to meet camp needs of that time. The first such patch issued was the Camp Reeves Workhorse Weekend (SA1) which was a recognition awarded to Arrowmen who worked on needed improvements to the newly opened Camp Reeves. The Camp Campbell Workhorse Weekend of 1968 (SA2) was to recognize those who tried to make essential improvements that would permit the continuing use of Camp Campbell a summer camp facility. However, for numerous reasons, this effort was not successful and Camp Campbell was no longer used as a long term camp.

The service patches R12, SA3, SA4 and SA6 were designed to recognize those Arrowmen who met special service requirements established by the lodge in support of Camp Reeves or the new Camp Durant. In 1994 a new concept of service awards was introduced. This Troop Community Award was presented to Arrowmen whose units met specific requirements of community service established by the Lodge.

LODGE ACTIVITIES

The very first Order of the Arrow activity patch issued by Occoneechee Council was in the form of a rocker (A1), awarded in conjunction with the 1949 and 1950 summer camps. What was needed to earn this patch is not known. Perhaps it was issued to all Arrowmen who attended summer camp in those years.

The 1965 Pow Wow was the first official Lodge function for which an activity patch was issued. Since that time a patch has been issued for nearly all lodge activities: Spring Pow Wows, Inductions, and Fall Fellowships and once for a Lodge Winter Banquet (A60). Each of these emblems are easily identifiable by the wording on the face of the sign composite. This was done twice more. Beginning with the Spring Ordeal of 1982 through the Fall Fellowship of 1983 six patches were designed to fit together in a larger diagonal collage. Again, from the Spring Pow Wow of 1992 through the Fall Fellowship of 1993 the patches issued were designed to fit together as a hexagonal collage. The center of the composite arrowhead was the service patch (SA3) awarded to Arrowmen for a set number of service hours performed to get Camp Durant ready to host the 1993 Old North State Conclave.
